MATTERS MATRIMONIAL.

The Wedding Bells, Announcements, Cupid's Mischief

Miss Mary Coleman Letcher, of Richmond, and Mr. Jno. N. Turner, Jr., of Campbellsville, will wed February 27th. The bride is well known in Paris, having visited here on several occasions.

Wm. Mackey, of Union Mills neighborhood, and Mrs. Henrietta Curd, of Wilmore, were married in Lexington, Wednesday morning. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for Paris where they were given a reception at the home of Mr. Mackey's brother Samuel Mackey.

A Shelbyville paper gives the following note of interest: "What will be pleasant news to the many friends of both the contracting parties is the announcement of the marriage of Hon. Robert T. Wickliffe, of Louisiana, and Miss Mary Dade Wallace, formerly of this place. The wedding, which will be a quiet one, will be solemnized Thursday, February 14, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Clarence D. Boyd, in Nashville, Tenn., with whom she has made her home for some time. Miss Wallace is the second daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Wallace and is a beautiful and accomplished young lady, whose sweet disposition and loveable traits endeared her to a host of friends. Mr. Wickliffe, or "Bob," as he is familiarly known, is a son of the late Gov. Wickliffe, of Louisiana, and is a prominent young lawyer, at present holding the responsible office of State's Attorney for East and West Feliciana parishes in Louisiana. He was a prominent member of the late Louisiana Constitutional Convention." Mr. Wickliffe is a cousin of Mrs. Robert Thompson, of this county.

STAGE STORIES.

Amusement Announcements, Lobby Chat-ter--Odd Bits of Gossip.

A GREAT PLAY AT THE GRAND.

The audience at the Grand Opera House next Tuesday night, when Mr. Andrew Robson will present "The Royal Box," will, to a certain extent, be playing a part just as are the actors on the stage. The audience will be at the Old Drury Lane Theatre in London a century ago. In one of the boxes will be the Prince of Wales, afterward George IV., and several of his friends. On the stage the chief character in the interesting story of "The Royal Box," supposed to be an actor at Drury Lane, while appearing in a scene from "Romeo and Juliet," will approach the footlights in a jealous rage and denounce the Prince. The curtain will be rung down, the stage manager will apologize to the audience, and the orchestra will cover the seeming confusion by playing "God Save the King."

All this is a part of the play, but it is all so real, so well done, that one imagines for just a moment that he has actually witnessed a public quarrel between royalty and an actor. The scene and entire play is powerfully acted by Andrew Robson and an unusually strong supporting company, and they are aided by the same magnificent stage settings used in the long run of this successful drama at the Fifth Avenue Theatre in New York.

It was only by giving a substantial guarantee that the managers of the Grand were enabled to get this first-class company to come to Paris, and as the house is dark for ten days prior to their date, and the prices have not been advanced, there is no reason why a packed house should not greet the company.

In order to give every one ample opportunity to secure seats in advance the sale will be opened at Brooks' drug store on Friday morning at 8 o'clock. Prices are as follows: Dress Circle, $1; Parquette, 75 cents; Balcony, 50 cents; Gallery, 35 and 25 cents.

Colored people wishing reserved seats in the gallery can secure them at Freeman's barber shop Friday morning.

Rats!

A Stockton (Kan.) man purchased a vacant building that had been used for storage of corn. When he came to repair it, he found ninety-six bushels of good corn under the floor, which had been carried there by rats for a rainy day.

RELIGIOUS.

Prof. D. W. Batson, who recently retired from the Presidency of Kentucky Wesleyan College, will be connected with the "Central Methodist," of Louisville, which is one of the leading church papers of the South.

The protracted meeting at the Christian Church is still in progress, and will continue until Wednesday, and probably longer. Since our last issue there has been the following additions: Elizabeth Jameson, James Clay, Jr., George Abney, Miss Rice, Edna Elliott, August Gutzet, Geo. Wyatt, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt by letter. There were eleven baptisms on Sunday night. The sermons delivered by Elder Darsie are deep and convincing, and large audiences which tax the seating capacity of the church are gathered at every service.
